

Chefs Tom & Tootie Friend's

Chocolate Cake

We were celebrating the birthday of a dear friend who loves chocolate, so we baked a chocolate cake. But when the cake came out of the oven, the cake layers wouldn't come out of the pan! The layers were broken up, and our friend was at the door! This is how we solved it...

- put butter cream icing on the warm cake
- prepare cooked chocolate pudding Jell-O in the microwave
- put some of the chocolate pudding in a semi-deep bowl
- add pieces of the iced cake
- sprinkle Toll House Chocolate morsels atop the cake
- repeat the steps until all ingredients are gone
- serve with vanilla ice cream and a pitcher of cold milk

And for extra fun, prepare in a large bowl, give spoons to your guests, and invite everyone to dig-in!
